Other Troops of 10th Corps Striving to Fight Way Out of "Pockets"—Bitter Struggle—U. N. Troops in North-west Korea Brace Themselves for Frontal Assault.

By LEE FERRERO

(International News Service War Correspondent)

SEOUL, Dec. 6—The great port of Wonsan on North Korea's east coast was evacuated today in a Dunkirk-style retreat by United Nations troops of the 10th Corps.

As Chinese Communist forces stabbed into Wonsan's outskirts from the nearby coastal hills, American and other allied troops were removed from the port in small boats and taken north to Hamhung's port of Hungnam.

Other troops of Major General Edward M. Almond's 10th Corps were striving to fight their way out of enemy pockets north of Hungnam in a bitter struggle to reach the coast for possible evacuation of Northeast Korea by sea.

Hungnam, ocean outlet for the nearby rail-industrial hub of Hamhung, lies 50 air miles north of abandoned Wonsan which was formerly the chief supply port for the 10th Corps.

SEOUL, Dec. 6—(INS)—United Nations troops in northwest Korea braced themselves today to meet a frontal assault by Chinese Red forces which have already sent flanking spearheads to within 50 miles of the 38th Parallel.

In the northeast, the swarming Chinese Communists were reported to have sliced through to the coast to form a huge pocket around thousands of Americans engaged in a bitter struggle to break out of encirclement.

On the eve of the ninth anniversary of the Pearl Harbor attack, the outlook for the American forces and their UN allies in Korea seemed as dark as during the early days of World War II, in the Pacific.

However, a note of mild hopefulness was struck by Gen. J. Lawton Collins, the U. S. Army's Chief of Staff, when he declared that the Eighth Army's retreat from Pyongyang was "orderly."

Returning to Seoul from a flying inspection trip to the northwest front, Collins indicated that the Eighth Army's American, British Commonwealth and South Korean troops may be able to make a stand along their new line above the 38th Parallel.

The American army's top commander at the same time ruled out any tactical use of the atomic bomb

Mathewson is First War Fatality from Chalfont

CHALFONT, Dec. 6—Word has been received of the first fatality in the Korean war from this area. The victim is Staff Sgt. Bruce Mathewson, of the U. S. Marine Corps, who met death November 29th in the line of duty. His wife has been so informed by the war department.

Sgt. Mathewson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Mathewson, of New Britain, and is the father of three small children. He had visited his home here last June for six weeks. In his last letter, he said he was at "Hamhung," Korea. He had been with the first group of Marines, who had been cut off and encircled.

He had also previously been shot in the hand, and after spending two weeks in the hospital, received word that replacements were needed and was returned to duty.

Mathewson, who was 30, enlisted in the service when he was 16 by vouching that he was 18 years of age. He had spent 14 years in the Marines, and was a veteran of the last war, seeing service in Okinawa and other Pacific districts. He was bayoneted once and wounded twice more during World War II, and was awarded two Purple Hearts at Iwo Jima and one at Guam.

He married Miss Emma Winder in 1941 and returned to duty the following May.

YARDLEY DESIRES HOME MAIL DELIVERY

Population of Borough is Now Over 2,000, It Is Reported by Official

TO CONTINUE EFFORTS

YARDLEY, Dec. 6—A campaign to secure house-to-house mail delivery for Yardley borough is to be renewed. Yardley borough council decided at the end of the week to continue efforts to that end.

It was pointed out by Edward Garlits, president of Yardley Businessmen's Association, that the population is now over 2,000. He suggested to council that a street map be sent to the U. S. Post Office Department, Washington, D. C., indicating the growth and expansion of the borough.

Garlits emphasized that he thinks Yardley has grown enough to warrant house-to-house mail delivery instead of each resident having to go to the post office to obtain the mail.

A delegation from the Yardley Manor Civic Club ask that council erect a street light on South Main street, near the railroad bridge. Council President George Bennett informed the delegation that the Reading Railroad Company should be petitioned to provide some adequate illumination for the street railroad bridge site.

A motion was made that a letter

THE NEW DEAL'S 23RD PSALM

One of the most spirited attacks on President Truman's giveaway program which has thus far appeared is the following, reprinted from the Bulletin of Grace Methodist Church, Savannah, Georgia:

"The government is my shepherd. I need not work. It allows me to lie down on good jobs; it leadeth me beside the still factories. It destroyeth my initiative; it leadeth me in the path of the parasites for politics' sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of laziness and deficit spending, I will fear no evil; for the Government is with me; its doles and its vote-getters, they comfort me. It prepareth an economic Utopia for me by appropriating the earnings of my grandchildren. It fillet my head with bologna; my inefficiency runneth over. Surely the Government will care for me all the days of my life, and I shall dwell in a fool's paradise forever."

County Seat Takes Second Place in The Marriage License Honors

20 ARE FROM BRISTOL

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 6—Marriage licenses issued at the office of the Orphans' Court of Bucks County, during the month of November, totalled 109. Applicants were from 28 districts of the county, a dozen other towns in Pennsylvania, and from seven other states.

The county seat rose to second place for Bucks honors, with 11 applicants, while Quakertown, which is usually runner-up to first place Bristol, dropped to a fifth place tie with Perkasie, each providing seven brides and grooms. Croyston sent ten marriage candidates apiece, and eight each came from Langhorne and Newtown.

A great many came here from Trenton, and this month was no exception. Of the 20 Jerseyites, who preferred Keystone State licenses, 12 were from that city. Twenty also came from Bristol, which is a lower number than customary. Philadelphia came through with its usual large number, when 54 Quaker City brides and grooms purchased passports to wedded bliss.

Other Pennsylvanians, who patronized the local marriage bureau, were from Elkins Park, Mt. Bethel, North Wales, Bridgewater, Pottstown, Norristown, Emmaus, Royersford and Shippensburg.

River Fails To Reach Height Expected Here

The expected high water in the Delaware River did not arrive today. The water level here at nine o'clock this morning was about two feet above level but not near the mark predicted late yesterday.

Bristol police yesterday notified residents along the river to remove articles from lawns, as high water was expected.

A strong tide brought some debris down the river.

R. F. C. Lends Kaiser $25,000,000 for War Plant

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—The Reconstruction Finance Corp. today granted the Kaiser-Frazer Corp. a $25,000,000 loan to help finance a $200,000,000 war expansion program.

The agency specified that Kaiser-Frazer must cut its daily production from 1400 to 600 automobiles by Jan. 1 and not to raise car prices above the Dec. 1 level without Government consent. In addition, the firm must try to get defense work and give it priority over automobile production.

Security for the new loan will be some 2500 Kaiser and Henry J. cars stored in bonded warehouses.

Henry J. Kaiser, "miracle man" of the Second World War battle of the production line, announced that the loan would partially pay for a $200,000,000 expansion program now under way.

This will include a plant to be opened soon in the San Francisco-Oakland area "for the manufacture of products in the military classified list;" the reopening of two West Coast shipyards, and expansion of his steel, aluminum, cement and gypsum production capacity.

MOTHER LECTURED FOR GOING OUT AND DRINKING

Bristol Heights Woman Is Given Severe Reprimand By Judge Keller

HAS FIVE CHILDREN

Defendant and Husband Had Quarrel in Barry's Taproom

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 6—A Bristol Heights mother of five children, ranging in age from 18 months to 12 years, was reprimanded by President Judge Hiram H. Keller, when she appeared in court. She was lectured for going out to taprooms and getting into drunken family brawls with her husband.

The defendant, Estella Morrow, testified her defendant husband, Raymond Morrow, 37, did not stab her in Pat Barry's taproom August 31, following a family fight. He pleaded guilty to aggravated assault and battery and was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and a fine of $100. A prison sentence of nine to 18 months was suspended.

A stiletto, which both husband and wife insisted was being used to open clams, which they brought into the taproom, was confiscated as was a 22 calibre rifle which the defendant had in his car and said he was going to use to hunt muskrats.

"I have very little respect for any woman who has children as small as 18 months old, and goes to bars and taprooms and gets into a brawl," said President Judge Keller. "Your home and family life will be investigated, and if everything isn't all right your children will be taken away from you."

George E. Neal, the bartender, was reprimanded by the Court for being evasive, and proprietor, Patrick Barry, was scolded and told "to watch his step" because he sold drinks to customers who were obviously drunk.

Chief Joseph Seader, of Bristol township, investigated the husband-wife altercation and said Mrs. Morrow's side had a stab wound, two and one-half inches deep, but that she "carried on so at the Nazareth Hospital they discharged her."

The defendant, who is employed as a maintenance man, was warned about taking another drink while on probation. "I would send you to jail in a minute if it weren't for your five children," said Judge Keller, who gave him one of the most severe "lectures" ever given a defendant.

The defendant insisted that his wife "fell" on the stiletto which he was holding in his hand while opening clams.

"Your wife should have been arrested, too," said the Court. "Then we might have gotten at the truth in this matter."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Morrow admitted they were drunk and didn't remember what happened.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan
(Distributed by International News Service)

There is much disturbing news and the information hot from Hawaii that Esther Williams has taken to eating raw fish is not quite the staggering blow it might have been in happier times.

With all the confusion existing in the world today it is quite possible that one could hurry past Miss Williams without (1) noticing that it was Miss Williams and/or (2) that she was gnawing on a fish.

A few years back the Gallup people would have been backing citizens into doorways to ask (1) do you believe that raw fish does anything for you? (2) Do you believe that raw fish does anything for Esther Williams? (3) Undecided?

Today even the information that there is, has been or will be a Bankhead-Davis or Davis-Bankhead feud appears to be running second in the news to reports of that larger feud which seems destined to involve more persons.

It's nice to have known a world though in which Hollywood feuds seemed terribly important at the time and we can't wait to get back to those delightful days.

Meanwhile who's feeding the raw meat to Mao . . . that's what we want to know.

CURBS ON COPPER

A wide segment of American industry will feel the new government curbs on the civilian use of copper that will go into effect January 1. That is to say, of course, that in time the National Production Authority's latest order will have its impact on consumers generally.

No one needs to be told how important a commodity copper has become in this mechanized and electrified (if there is no such word there ought to be) civilization. Copper is used in making automobiles, household appliances, television and radio sets. It is essential in power and communications systems. In the form of brass and bronze it fills countless other needs.

After January 1 civilian industry will be forced to get along with less copper than it has been using. In January and February the amount delivered by mines and smelters must be 15 per cent below the monthly average total shipped during the first half of 1950. In March shipments must be 20 per cent under that figure.

These cuts are substantial. They are based on the first half of this year, when production was not as high as in the last half, and consequently less copper was used in recent months. The copper situation has been permitted to become critical. Copper now on hand represents only a 13-day supply. During World War II stocks never fell below a 30-day supply.

All out-war with Russia now might find the nation desperately short of copper in a month's time.

MENACE OF CONTROLS

Farmers are paying 29 cents a pound for cattle suitable for fattening. That is eight per cent more than the peak in 1948 and 40 per cent more than a year ago. It is a precarious price setup that could crash with huge losses.

Yet feeders are buying heavily on the assumption that this will not happen. Ranchers are holding breeding stock off the market to increase their herds for long pull profits.

According to the bullish analysis, there is a big consumer demand for beef now and it will grow. As the rearmament industries swing into their full functions, there will be more consumer money to spend and increasing demand for meat.

There are 5,000,000 fewer cattle than during the last two years of World War II when beef was inadequate and rationed. In the meantime the population has increased along with purchasing power.

But if cattle prices continue to soar, there will be rising demand for price control. Stabilizing prices at the current level would be rough on the cattle feeders. If they find the going rough, they will decrease their herds and meat scarcity will be aggravated.

The United States must have more cattle for an increasing population. But price control would have the effect of decreasing the meat supply.

Orange-blossoms, who were trying wedlock for the second and third time, exceeded the number of those in the underage group this month, with 49 divorced and widowed, against 40, who needed parental consent. Of the 36 divorcees taking again to double harness 24 had cut their former marital ties within the past two years, and nine had received decrees during 1950.

In the group of 13, whose former mates had died, five were marrying divorcees. One bride had a former marriage dissolved by annulment, another couple did a "repeat" job by re-marrying each other, and one pair of applicants "changed their minds." Applying for the license one day, they lost Cupid's darts in a hurry and called up the next day to cancel the order.

The underagers were mostly women, marrying older men. There were five grooms of 20; four of 19; one of 18, and one of 17 years of age, and there were nine brides 20 years of age; ten were 19; six were 18; three were 17 and one was sixteen. against Red China's million-man invasion army.
"Certainly, from what I have seen on this trip to Korea," Collins told newsmen, "there is no place here to use the atom bomb."
The Chief of Staff said Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker's Eighth Army troops "showed good morale" in the new positions along which they were aligned after their long retreats from the approaches to Manchuria's border.

But even as Collins spoke, an inland flanking threat to the UN defense line mounted. Thronging down the middle of the peninsula, Chinese forces were assembling at Koksan for an anticipated effort to swerve southwest and envelop the Allied positions.

Koksan is less than 50 miles north of the 38th Parallel, the artificial border between North and South Korea. It is 50 miles south-east of the North Korean capital of Pyongyang, re-occupied by the Communists Tuesday, and 94 miles north of Seoul, the South Korean capital.

Location of the Eighth Army's current defense belt remained a tightly-held military secret. It was stated only that the new positions lie somewhere north of the Parallel which the North Korean invaders

JINGLE BELL ONE
SANTA CLAUS sat down to the dinner table as cross as a bear. He didn't even glance at his wife to see which of her caps was on her white-haired head. And that was a thing Santa was always very particular to notice.
Mrs. Santa Claus had three caps—her Sleeping Cap, her Working Cap and her Thinking Cap.
The first was knit of white cotton yarn, with a small scrimpy crown, fitting close to her head. It was made with not even a pucker or gather, or frill, or a scrap of trimming on it, and it was tied under her double chin with strings a quarter of a yard long.
When she wore this special cap, Santa took off his boots and went around on tip-toe.
Her Working Cap was made of stiff cloth, in the shape of a large inverted candy horn. It had a large, bright yellow bow in front and a large blue one behind. The high-peaked top stood up in a fierce and defiant way.
When she appeared in this towering fashion, Santa Claus always thought best to keep at a respectful distance. So did Marly the dog, and Persia the cat, and Yak-Yak the parrot.
But the Thinking Cap! This was something to see, and when the good old lady placed that on her head, with its full crown and broad frills of soft white mull, and its pretty floating ribbons, then Marly curled up at her feet, and Persia jumped on her lap, and Yak-Yak perched on her shoulder, and jolly Santa leaned back in his great arm chair, with his feet on the fireplace screen and chuckled and laughed, and shook his fat sides, the jolliest, happiest old fellow in the world.
Because this Thinking Cap covered a great many unusual fancies and wise suggestions, and loving thoughts, which sooner or later, he was sure to hear about and to reap the benefit of.
However, on this particular day, the day before Christmas, Mrs. Santa Claus was at the dinner table, with her Working Cap stuck on in a very ferocious and alarming manner.
At any other time Santa Claus, seeing this, would have humbly and meekly eaten his dinner and gone off to his afternoon nap, without saying a word. But, this particular day, he was as cross as a bear. And this is what had caused it.
A week before this event took place, Santa had been talked into putting in a telephone at his North Pole home and workshop, much to the disturbance of his wife. And messages began to pour in over the telephone, messages like:
"Hello! What is it?"
"Please connect me with Santa."
"Hello, who is it?" And then would come the answers from Billy and Betty, and Nick and Ned, and Margie and Kathy, and Tom and Bob, and a thousand others. And they were all just alike.
"Dear Santa Claus, I want you to send me for Christmas, a pony, or a pet dog, or a big talking doll, or a watch, or a bicycle, or a sled, or a set of real china dishes, or a play house," and five thousand other things.

Strong Eighth Army forces were moving east and northeast to the area of Korea's central mountain "spine" to deal with the enemy's flanking threat.

At the same time, droves of American planes blasted, rocketed and strafed the Chinese troops massing in and around Koksan.

Air attacks continued against the enemy hordes moving through Pyongyang in a frontal approach to the UN defense line athwart the roads to Seoul. American airmen were credited with killing some 2,500 Chinese Red soldiers in the Pyongyang area Tuesday.

General Motors and Ford To Raise Price of Cars

DETROIT, Dec. 6.—General Motors Corporation and the Ford Motor Company announced last night they were raising prices immediately. Both said this was necessary because of spiraling rises in wages, operating costs and supplies.

The General Motors increase was revealed by the corporation president, Charles E. Wilson, who said it would be "something less than 5 per cent."

Ford did not break down the higher prices into percentage figures but they will range from $87.50 on Ford cars to $165 on the Lincoln Cosmopolitans. The Mercury will be up $98 and the Lincoln $140.

All Ford price increases are effective immediately. Those for General Motors will be announced with the introduction of 1951 models, beginning Saturday, when the new Chevrolets are offered.

Morrisville To Have A Community Xmas Tree

MORRISVILLE, Dec. 6.—The Morrisville Business Men's Association has placed a community Christmas tree at the corner

The tree will be lighted each evening, and local organizations who desire to plan a night of singing at the tree are urged to contact Mrs. Edna White, secretary.

Santa Claus will appear in the borough to start a street parade sometime next week. Instead of a kiddies' Christmas party this year, the association voted to purchase an audiometer, a machine to test the hearing of pupils. It has already been ordered. President Irving Levinson announces, and will be presented to the Morrisville schools.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.
(Copyright, 1950
King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 — The byline abandon with which Mr. Truman handles facts impresses me profoundly.

He does it with the tensionless ease of a perfect tee shot on the golf course; or the oblivious flippancy of a Billie Burke comedy line; or the guiltless gaiety of a kitten playing before an open fire.

Never let it be said that Uncle Harry is one to worry himself into stomach ulcers by self-enslavement on the galley of petty detail. Nay, nay!

A case in point is an exchange of correspondence between the President and Rep. Walter Norblad, a Republican from Oregon, having to do with a projected scheme to run a huge water pipeline from the Columbia River to Los Angeles to supply the latter city. The length of this meandering drink of water would be approximately the distance from New York to Omaha, Neb., except that in two places it would have to be pumped to an altitude of 5,000 feet (the altitude of the city of Denver) and in another spot it would have to flow through a 100-mile tunnel to be drilled through the Sierra Mountains. Such problems are mere trivia, however, for the master dreamers of government.

What interested me about the letters was that just the day before, I had picked up in my dentist's waiting room a copy of the July issue of Popular Mechanics, and found there a Jules Verne account of the whole venture. There was a map, and a schematic drawing. Obviously the article was based on authentic information. No less obviously, the facts laid down therein did extreme violence to Mr. Truman's version.

The President's letter: "My Dear Congressman Norblad: I read your letter of August 22 with a great deal of interest, and for your information, there has never been any intention to divert any water from the Columbia River except at the point where it flows into the Pacific Ocean! (Exclamation point is my own.)

"The best survey that I have been able to have made states that 140 million acre feet of water flows into the Pacific Ocean every year. There isn't any reason in the world why this waste water should not be used. Of course, there has never been a project, which is for the welfare of the nation as a whole, that hasn't had opposition and I expected opposition to this one.

"If I remember correctly, some of your colleagues in the northwest made the statement that Grand Coulee Dam would serve only coyotes, groundhogs, and jack-rabbits. That prophecy doesn't seem to have come true.

"I hope you will inform yourselves more fully on the situation before you come to a conclusion that this project cannot and should not be done. Sincerely yours, Harry S. Truman."

Inasmuch as the Columbia River is as salty as the Pacific Ocean itself at the point where one flows into the other, and remains so for a distance of nearly 100 miles upstream, it occurred even to me that the good residents of southern California are destined for a very briny water supply, if and when this project goes through. Of course, the water could be distilled when it finally reaches the Los Angeles reservoirs, but that would be rather expensive. Besides, if distillation is the answer, why bring the salt water all the way from the Columbia River? There's a whole ocean full of the same stuff at the end of Santa Monica Boulevard, and it wouldn't have to be pumped over 5,000-foot mountain ranges, or run through 100-mile tunnels.

As a dutiful reporter, I called the officials in charge of the advance survey work, in the Interior Department. I did not, of course, embarrass them by mentioning the epistle to the Oregonians. I just inquired meekly about the over-seasoning in the water at the Columbia's mouth, and what went, please. They verified my anticipations. There has been some casual consideration, they said, of the idea of taking the water out of the river below Bonneville Dam, which is the last dam downstream from the river. It's about 100 miles from the ocean. That, however, has not been taken very seriously.

Their chief attention has been concentrated on taking the water from the headquarters of several of the tributaries that combine to form the Columbia in its upper reaches. No report has been decided upon, but there may be one ready for the 82nd Congress.

Anyway, the facts as laid down by Mr. T. in his letter, and the facts as they actually exist, did have one mutual contact: they both had to do with a projected canal from the Columbia River to Los Angeles, Calif.

HIGH SCHOOL OPENS ITS COURT SEASON WITH ALUMNI

Bristol High opens its 1950-51 basketball season tonight, meeting the Alumni team on the high school court. In the first game of the evening, the Bristol Junior Varsity quintet meets Delhaas High School. The latter game will begin at seven o'clock.

Coach Jerry Bloom has had his cohorts practicing for less than two weeks but feels confident that they will be able to take over the graduates. Bloom and Company face stiff opposition Friday night when they travel to Reading to play Reading Central Catholic High.

Coach Bloom has shaved his varsity team to thirteen players, namely: Dick Puchino, Al Lewis, Charlie Rauch, Vito Basco, Alan Stoneback, Raul Stevens, Jim Gallagher, Joe Embiscuso, Charlie Brady, Frank Lucenti, Andy Accardi, Bob Ashby and Bob Weideman.

The high school mentor lost such players as Frank Rich, Howard Grant, Bill Condit, Frankie Barbetta, Marty Braam, Joe Pindar and Vic Cauti and the only player with a wealth of experience is Charlie Rauch, last season's center.

The Alumni team will be managed by John Centonze and Thomas Juno and in its lineup will have "Dezzy" De Lise, Horace Saxton, Don DeLong, Alan Burton, Val Bielecki, Bill Wallick, Frank Barbetta, Joe Pindar, Henry Konefal and "Easy" Mama.

Anthony "Chick" DiAngelo will be making his debut as coach of the junior varsity. For his squad, he has selected: Pat Rossi, Bill Marshall, George Jacoby, James Dugan, Bob Stroebel, Bob Braker, Joe Coyle, Ronnie Ciambelli, Dominick Lucenti, Gene Dugan, and Jack Bove.

Most of these players were members of last season's crack Junior High team.

ASKS ALUMNI PLAYERS TO REPORT

John Centonze, manager of the Bristol High Alumni team, would like to have all players present tonight at the high school at 7:30 o'clock. Players added to the squad last night were: Howard Keys, Dominick Oriola, William Cochran and "Lou" Mari.

WRESTLING NOW A MAJOR SPORT AT HIGH SCHOOL

Wrestling is now a major sport at the Bristol high school. Coach Harold W. Ferguson has been drilling his grapplers for the past week in preparation for the opening match with Lower Merion high on Friday, December 22nd.

Wrestling was introduced to the local high school fans toward the end of last season and in the few matches held here proved very successful. Most of the teams that came here were given stiff battles by the local wrestlers.

Coach Ferguson has a six-match schedule facing him with a possibility of two more being added.

The schedule:

Date	Opponent	Place
Fri., Dec. 22	Lower Merion, home	*
Sat., Jan. 6	George School, home	*
Tues., Jan. 9	Cheltenham, away	**

FOLTZ GETS BERTH ON FOOTBALL SQUAD

A Bristolian, William "Bill" Foltz, was given high honors last week when placed on the second team of the All-Pennsylvania football squad picked by the sports writers of the Associated Press. Foltz plays tackle for the West Chester State Teachers College and formerly played with Bristol High. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Foltz, Madison street.

Wayne "Inky" Schneider, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Schneider, Hulmeville, was given honorable mention in the backfield. Yesterday, Schneider was also given honorable mention on the Associated Press' Little All-America football team. Schneider, formerly of Langhorne High, has been first string quarterback at West Chester for several seasons.

and 75 feet high. Poles and transformers are now available, McClenaghan reported, and installation of the lighting system would take a month. The Athletic Committee will meet with the contractor now being consulted at the field soon to discuss the installation and makes its recommendations to the board. McClenaghan reported it was the consensus of his committee that night football was necessary to draw crowds.

Superintendent Manohar R. Reiter reported that only one high school teacher and five grade school teachers had no bachelor degree. The high school teacher will get a bachelor degree shortly. All others in the faculty have either a bachelor's or bachelor's and master's degrees.

Assistant High School Principal Melvin Bonboulis and his staff were praised by the superintendent and board for instructions in swimming given students at the Trenton YWCA.

GRID CLASS

ELKINS, W. Va.—(INS)—Athletic Director Press Maravich thinks it's important that Davis and Elkins coeds know something about football. And the girls agree with him. Maravich started a non-credit evening course in football theory at Davis and Elkins, and although attendance is voluntary, classes have been sizeable and enthusiastic.

U. S. Steel Co. plant" added Neibauer.

This proposed route is an alternate one, the schedule (it is planned) to be so arranged that one bus will follow the present route, and the next the alternate route. It is announced by Neibauer officials that anyone interested in testifying at the hearing as to the need for this new route may do so by contacting Neibauer Company, as proof of necessity of such route is required by the PUC.

The date for the hearing in the application has not been set.

Decision by the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission is awaited on application for a franchise by Israel Richmond.

The commission conducted a hearing in Philadelphia last week.

The Richmond buses would travel out of Morrisville on South Pennsylvania Avenue, which becomes the Morrisville-Bordentown Road in the vicinity of the former Maritime Academy. Further along it becomes the Tullytown-Bordentown Road. A turn would be made on Tyburn Road and the buses would return to South Pennsylvania Avenue.

The commission also will decide Richmond's application for extension of an existing route in Morrisville on Hillcrest Avenue. The route would be about a mile longer, serving 200 new homes on the avenue, which parallels West Bridge Street.
